UNDERSTANDING HYALURONIC ACID AND ITS BENEFITS

Hyaluronic acid, also known as hyaluronan or hyaluronate, is a naturally occurring substance in the human body that's slippery and gooey in texture. It's found throughout the body, particularly in the eyes, joints, and skin. Hyaluronic acid has a remarkable ability to retain water - just a quarter-teaspoon of it can hold up to one and a half gallons of water. This is why it's used to treat dry eyes and incorporated into various moisturizing creams, lotions, ointments, and serums.

WHAT ARE BLENDS?

Essential oils are dynamic organic liquids that work in synergy with each other. Synergy means 'working together in harmony'. In general, essential oils work better when mixed with other essential oils. Each essential oil has a multitude of compounds, and while we come to know them for their beneficial, healing properties, each oil also has weaker components that may even trigger adverse reactions in some people.

When blending essential oils, one oil can balance out the weaker parts of another, and even negate the possible side effects that oil could have if applied on its own.

CBD IN BLENDS

CBD oil has shown significant benefit to those who have trouble sleeping or relaxing. It has anti-anxiety properties, is a known mood enhancer and eases muscle aches and pains. It can also be used as a topical cream to treat a number of skin conditions. Since certain essential oils can do these same things, it only stands to reason that combining the two would boost the efficacy of both.
